DR. McILHENNY'S DEATH WITH SKETCH OF HIS LIFE AND THAT OF HIS SON.

The Awful Accident and Deaths Shock Community in Which They Lived.

The "Leader-Courier" of Kingman, Kansas, has the following to say, among other things, concerning the death of Dr. H. Lott McIlhenney, on the morning of the 10th inst:

Last Saturday Dr. McIlhenney and his son Bruce started from Kingman to St. Louis for the purpose of spending a week or two at the Fair. When they left this city they were in the best of spirits. Bruce especially, in anticipation of the pleasures of the trip for which he had planned for a number of weeks. He had prepared a diary and secured maps and other necessary guides and data that he might be prepared to pass the time intelligently and pleasantly at St. Louis. His father's trip was nearly altogether in the interest of his son, and he anticipated with great pleasure the satisfaction he knew the boy would experience by reason thereof. Monday the terrible shock came in a telegram to the agent of the Missouri Pacific at this place, announcing the wreck, and telling of the death of Bruce and asking for directions for the disposition of the body which had been easily identified by reason of the diary. This news at once aroused fears that the father, too, had shared the same fate, else why the inquiry.

His brother, Dr. R. A. McIlhenney, of Conway Springs, started at once for the scene of the wreck and on reaching there found the story told by the telegram to be true in all the horrible details attendant upon such a disaster. He at once had the bodies prepared and brought them to Kingman, the coming of father and son being in awful contrast to their departure a few days previous. Few if any deaths which have occurred in this community have aroused as universal sorrow as have the deaths of Dr. McIlhenney and his son, the prominence of the parties and the circumstances surrounding, making it especially distressing. The Doctor had but a few months since moved to this city and already he had acquired a wide patronage, owing to his skill as a physician and his congenial and companionable ways. As a citizen he was a man above reproach, and his every day walk and conversation worthy of emulation. While it is a sad duty to chronicle the death of such a man it is with pleasure we refer to his many estimable traits. In the case of his son Bruce, it can truthfully be said of him that he was a boy of exceptional character and "wise beyond his years." He was the idolized favorite of the household and the much beloved companion of his young schoolmates. As a partial evidence of the esteem in which he was held by his schoolmates and teacher his desk in the school-room has been draped in mourning and banked and covered with the loveliest flowers, and in the hushed conversation about the school grounds and wherever they are congregated his name is reverently spoken and his many good qualities dwelt upon. Had he lived until the 23d of next month he would have been eleven years old. The floral tributes from the many friends and different churches and societies were mute testimonials of the high esteem in which the deceased was held and the large assemblage in attendance at the funeral services attest in language stronger than words the respect in which they were held by the public.

The grief-stricken relatives, especially the beloved wife and fatherless children, are entitled to the greatest measure of sympathy in their hours of desolation.

Henry L. McIlhenney was born at Gettysburg, Pa., Dec. 3, 1878, being a son of Jacob G. and Sarah Lott McIlhenney. His childhood home was on his father's farm in sight of the battlefield of Gettysburg, and he received his early education in the Gettysburg High School and the State Normal School at Shippensburg, Pa., after which he taught in his native state for two years. In 1879 he came to Kansas, settling at Belle Plaine, where he taught school and took up the practice of medicine. In 1884 he graduated from the Missouri Medical College and began his practice at Belle Plaine where he remained about a year. In the summer of 1885 he located in the then new town of Norwich in this county, and engaged in the practice of his profession with marked success from the beginning. About one year ago he came to Kingman.

On the 11th day of October, 1898, the deceased was united in marriage with Miss Lynn Harner, and to this union has been born four children, they being Grace, aged 16, Bruce, deceased, Florence, aged 8, and Little Dot, aged about 2 years; but cruel death has entered this once happy home and where joy and gladness reigned a few short days ago grief and sorrow now dwell, and the light and sunshine and the hopes and aspirations of a once happy home circle have been broken and blotted out, and dark despair reigns instead.

Dr. McIlhenney was a member of various secret and fraternal orders, among them being the Masons, Odd Fellows, A. O. U. W., Modern Woodmen, and Knights and Ladies of Security, and large delegations from each order are in the city today attending the funeral, the burial ceremonies being in charge of the Masonic fraternity.

Funeral services are conducted at the family home and the principal address will be delivered by Rev. T. A. Cinget of the Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was a member. Supt. Wagon of the Missouri Pacific with a number of Wichita physicians and railway officials and other prominent men are here attending the funeral services.

As a mark of respect the principal stores and business houses of this city closed this afternoon during the funeral services.

TOWN BENEFACTOR DEAD COLONEL J. C. FULLER PASSED AWAY.

He Was the Builder Twenty Years Ago of the Gettysburg and Harrisburg R. R.

Colonel J. C. Fuller.

Colonel J. C. Fuller, the iron maker, railroad promoter, one of the best known citizens of Cumberland county and the man above all others to whom Gettysburg owed the second railroad line to be built to this place, died at his home at Pine Grove Furnace last Wednesday morning, aged 77 years old.

During his entire life his attention has been given to the mining of coal, iron ore, the manufacturing of iron, brick and the building of railroads. During the early sixties Colonel Fuller was prominently identified with the banking firm of Jay, Cooke & Co., when the loans of the Government were financed by that firm to carry on the Civil War. From that time to the close of his life, Colonel Fuller had associated with him, Jay Cooke, in all his enterprises. It is Mr. Cooke and Mr. Fuller, who virtually own all the land at Pine Grove Furnace, controlling about 25,000 acres of land, 9,000 of which are in Adams county.

Colonel Fuller with the help of Jay Cooke built the Gettysburg and Harrisburg railroad, completed in 1884, foreseeing the important road it would be in the hauling of coal and other freight. This railroad became a branch of the Reading and was finally sold to the latter by Colonel Fuller in 1891, he retaining however the portion from Hunters Run to Pine Grove Furnace.

Colonel Fuller was president of the South Mountain Mining Co., the Fuller Brick and Slate Belt railroad. He was a member of the Union League, the New England Society and Masonic Order. He was a member of St. Mark's Episcopal Church Philadelphia.

In early life he was married to Miss Carrie Williams, of Erie, Pa., and is survived by one daughter, Mrs. W. H. Gibbons, of Ardmore, Pa. The funeral was held on Friday, at Pine Grove Furnace, and interment took place on Saturday, at Philadelphia.

Washington Brenizer.

Washington Brenizer died at his home at Heidlersburg on Saturday night, Oct. 15, aged about 72 years.

About 9 o'clock on Saturday evening he remarked that he would retire. Soon after going to bed he suffered a stroke of apoplexy and died at 1 o'clock Sunday morning. The deceased was born in Cumberland Co. but came to this county before he grew to manhood. He was a veteran of the Civil War having been in service two different times. The funeral services were held from his late residence last Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock with interment at Heidlersburg. The deceased is survived by his wife, five sons and four daughters: Samuel, of Harrisburg; Robert, of Kansas; John, of Dillsburg; Heber, of Bendersville, and Edward, at home; Mrs. Charles Tate, of Dillsburg; Mrs. Amos Minter, of Dillsburg, and Mrs. Mervin Slaybaugh, of Butler township.

Mrs. David Sechrist.

Mrs. David Sechrist after suffering from Bright's disease for some time died at her home near Bernudian church on Saturday morning, Oct. 15, aged about 64 years. The funeral services were held on Monday morning of last week with interment at the lower Bernudian church, Rev. R. H. Clare, of Abottstown, conducting the services. The deceased is survived by one child, Mrs. Levi Grimm, of Lattimore township.

Capt. James A. Lashelle.

Captain James A. Lashelle, formerly of Gettysburg, died at his home in Clay Center, Kansas, Oct. 2, in his 62d year. He was a student at Pennsylvania College when the war broke out and immediately enlisted in the 2d Pa. 3 months volunteers. He re-enlisted in the Anderson Troop, was made sergeant and rose rapidly to the rank of Captain. At time of battle of Gettysburg he was at home recovering from typhoid but during Lee's advance was able to render scouting service and the efforts of Captain Lashelle and a companion elicited the first accurate intelligence of Lee's movement that the War Department obtained. During the early part of the battle he was of much service to the Signal Corps at Round Top. He served later in Signal Corps and was of the very last of volunteers to be mustered out. He went first to Mason City, Ill., and later to Kansas, and took up a homestead and had his ups and downs until he came to prosperous circumstances. He had lived in Clay Center since 1900. His death was caused by a complication of diseases, legacies of the days in the army. He leaves a wife, five sons and two daughters.—From the State Record of Topeka, Kansas, published by W. R. Ryster.

Sarah Asper.

Mrs. Sarah Asper, nee Miss Chronister, relict of the late Jacob Asper, who died about 16 years ago, passed away in New York City last week. She lived in that city with her children and died of heart failure. Her remains were brought to the home of her son, John Asper, residing near Bernudian, on last Friday and from which place the funeral was held on Saturday. Interment was made at the Bernudian Reformed church. Rev. Spangier officiating. Mrs. Asper was between 67 and 68 years of age and is survived by four sons and two daughters. The sons are John H., of Bernudian, Andrew, near East Berlin, George and Lewis and daughters Miss Jennie and Mrs. Annie Dowe, of New York City.

Mrs. Amos Little.

Mrs. Amos Little died at her home at Idaville on Saturday morning at the advanced age of 78 years of age. Death was due to the infirmities of old age. The funeral was held from her late residence on Monday afternoon with interment at Pine's church, Rev. J. A. Burkholder conducting the services. The deceased was a highly respected woman who merited the friendship of all in the community in which she dwelt. She is survived by two children, Mrs. John C. Group, and Postmaster J. H. Little of Idaville.

Robert Watson.

Eddie Plank Pitched Ball.

On Thursday of last week a large crowd witnessed Eddie Plank, of the Athletics pitch ball and it was a wonderful exhibition. He simply toyed with the college team, let a player hit an easy ball and next time the same man would fan the air with the bat and never touch the ball. He made the game apparently as easy as he could for the college team. The score was 14 to 1. The one run of the college team was made by Paul Sieber knocking the ball over the fence and was the only home run of the game. Kauffman, and Thomas pitched for the college team. Robbin Wolf caught for Plank and on the town team was Lave Cross, Ira Plank, Al. Holtzworth, Charles Stock, John Wisotzky, Albert Minnigh and Edgar Crouse. Eddie Plank was in good shape and showed how he could pitch straight hard ball and did not find it necessary to put on exhibition many curves. The proceeds of the game were donated half to the College Athletic Association and half to the Woman's Civic Club, and the amount paid over to each was $30.75. The idea originated among the town players and that the teams and Planks and Lave Cross and others took it up and made it a success is a matter to be gratefully remembered.

Mr. Slagle's Statement.

Editor Morning Record—In the Daily Truth, published in Hanover, of the date Oct. 20, is contained an article which makes an attack upon me, in my position as a candidate for Associate Judge of Adams county, which is not only a lie out of the whole cloth, but for maliciousness of intent cannot be easily excelled.

Without going into details over the purport of the article, which seeks to characterize me as a narrow-minded person, it is sufficient to state that it trenches upon a subject which is repugnant to any citizen of fair mind, and the introduction of which into politics is deplored by all saved those dominated either by bigotry, and hate, or worse still, by mercenary considerations.

The article stated that, when my eldest son was approaching the year of his majority, I imposed upon him a solemn injunction "never to vote for a member of the Catholic Church."

To the large number of my fellow-citizens to whom I have the honor to be known, a denial of the above absurd, allegation is probably superfluous. I have for many years enjoyed their friendship and esteem, and know that with them a defence for so wanton and unprincipled accusation is unnecessary. Yet there are many whom this insidious imputation may reach and, for want of better information, prejudice against me.

The editor of "Truth" may endeavor to shield himself from blame for his despicable action by resorting to the old worn-out excuse that he got his information from "trustworthy" or "reliable" sources, but in the eyes of honest men this palliation will not suffice. The decent reputation of any man should not be permitted to be torn to pieces at one swoop by any journalistic adventurer or newspaper gossip who, not knowing the subject of his attack, and lacking the judgment or honor to first inform himself concerning his victim, recklessly fires his slunkpots. It may pay him in a fashion, but the gain or a little money should not justify even him in the murder of an honest earned reputation.

It seems to me there is no possible ground upon which the action of "Truth" can be excused, and therefore I feel it my duty, in justice to myself, to make my denial of the miserable screech as plain and strong as words will permit. I therefore make the following affidavit.

JAVA'S DEATH PLANT.

It Grows Only on the Sterile Soil of the Volcanic Regions.

Java, the land of the famous and much exaggerated Death valley, has many wonderful curiosities, the principal one being the Kali munda, or death plant. It grows only on the sterile soils of the volcanic regions of Java and the adjoining islands and is even there reckoned as a curiosity on account of its extreme scarcity. It grows from two and a half to three feet in height, with long, slender stems, well protected by stout thorns nearly an inch in length. The ground leaves are of a delicate, satiny-like smoothness, heart shaped, emerald
green on one side and blood red, streaked and veined with light buff, on the other.

The flowers of this death dealing beauty are more beautiful than the plant itself, being very large and cup shaped and of a color almost deathly in its whiteness. The name of the plant is from a characteristic of these splendid flowers, which, beautiful though they are, continually drip
with a deadly poison.

The poison, which is distilled in the bottom of the cup shaped blossom, has the sickening odor of chloroform intensified a dozen fold, it being powerful enough to overcome a full grown man in a few seconds, even when inhaled in open air. The perfume, if such a pungent odor can properly be so called, produces insensibility in the form of convulsions, distorting the face, especially the mouth and eyes.
Into a horrid, crazy looking grin. Recovery from the effects of inhaling this odor is said to be very slow.

THE TREE OF IMAGES.

Legend of a Peculiar Plant That Grows in Tibet.

There is a legend about a tree of Tibet, called the "tree of 10,000 images," which reads like this:

Far away in the dreary land of Arabia, in Tibet, is a green valley in which,
in a Tartar tent, was born a wonderful boy named Tsong Kaba. From his birth he had a long white beard and flowing hair and could speak perfectly his native tongue.

His manners were majestic, and his words were full of wisdom. When he was three years old he resolved to cut off his hair and live a solitary life. So his mother shaved his head and threw his long, flowing locks upon the ground outside their tent door. From his hair sprang the wonderful tree.

Tsong Kaba lived many years, did countless good deeds and at last died.
But the tree which had grown up from his hair lived, and they called it "the tree of 10,000 images." This was long before the Christian era, but it is the testimony of the French missionaries that the tree lives yet. The leaves are always green. The wood is of a reddish tint and has an aroma as of cinnamon.

The bark of the tree is marked with well known symbols in the Tibetan language. Alphabetic characters also appear in green on every leaf, some darker, some lighter than the leaf itself. The branches of the tree are described as being spread out like plumes
of feathers crowning a trunk only eight feet high, but of great girth.

Two French missionaries who saw the tree were fully convinced that the marks upon it were of natural growth.

Looking Into the Future.

"I guess I might as well quit school
pa," said the boy.

"Why, my son?"
"Oh, there ain't any use going, except to be able to help my little boy
when I grow up, and if they have changed the way of doing things since you were a boy so that you can't help me it's likely I'm just wasting my time getting ready to help my little boy."

He got the help he wanted, but it was a good thing he didn't hear what his father had to say about new-fangled school books after he had gone to bed.—New York Press.

GIRL'S SECRET.

"Aunt Cassie came to visit us and she saw I was nervous, had the edges all the time, and she asked me any questions,
and finally said, 'Why, you dear, sweet girl,
it's not your temper that's bad, it's your constitution that's out of kilter. You sit right down now and write a letter to Dr.
Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., tell him all your symptoms—and so I did. It wasn't long before I had a long reply, carefully going over my case and telling me just what to do. I date my present happiness and little Cupid's return to the very day I sat down to write that letter to Dr. Pierce, for his advice was so good and his 'Favorite Prescription' worked such a complete change
in me that now my former cheerfulness and good health—not to say anything of good looks—are restored to me. I have summoned Tom back to my side and we are to be married in June.'"

The proprietors and makers of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prostration, or Falling of the Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.
It is natural that a woman who has been cured of womanly disease by "Favorite Prescription" should believe that it will cure others. It is natural too that she should recommend to other women the medicine which has cured her. It is such commendation which has made the name of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
a household word for the past thirty-eight years.

Be Still Agreed.

Lord Justice Romer was a chancery
judge in England for nine years before he was raised to the appeal court. Decisive in manner and no waster of words, his simple "I agree" has become famous. Lord Justice Riggby was giving an elaborate decision one day and happened to pause in that effective way he had to give emphasis to a point. In an instant came in Sir Robert Romer's sonorous "I agree" to the visible discomfiture of Sir John Riggby. "But I hadn't finished my observations," he said and thereupon continued his judicial somewhat more exhaustively. At length he finished. "I still agree," said Lord Justice Romer. And the appeal court rang with unaccustomed laughter.

A Spoiled Dinner.

Mme. de Mazarin certainly was ex-centric and unfortunate, according to the memoirs of Marquise de Créqui.
She never gave a reception without some accident happening. When she had a supper party the kitchen was certain to catch on fire. She gave a grand fete champagne and in order to make it more realistic sent for a flock of real sheep, a beifer and a shepherd's dog. The flock was to pass behind a glass screen. An unruly buck smashed the glass, and the entire flock, with the beifer and dog, rushed in upon the audience and scattered it. Some of the sheep got access to the supper table,
and so there were no refreshments to speak of.

His Favorite Animals.

Sunday School Teacher—Do you love animals?
Boy—Yes'm.
"That's right. I'm glad you do.
What animals do you like best?"
"Snakes."
"Goodness! Why do you like
snakes?"
"Cause it ain't wicked to kill 'em."

HANOVER'S MONUMENT.

Equestrian Statue as Described by a Critic.

Cyrus E. Dallin, sculptor has recently completed the Equestrian Statue for the Hanover Monument, erected by the State of Pennsylvania.
"Mr. Dallin has conceived a group of man and horse which is expressive of vigilance and readiness, but wholly devoid of stress and strain. Both steed and rider are motionless, but it is made perfectly evident that, the need arising, both are alert and instant to act. The horse stands squarely on his four feet, with his neck arched, his head downward toward his chest and his eyes and ears attentive. He is suggestive of much reserve power. Mr. Dallin understands the anatomy and nature of the horse
so well, and has such a keen appreciation of the beauty and intelligence of the animal, that all of his equestrian statues have been notable for the vitality, grace, suppleness and elegance of the horses. This new statue is no exception, and, indeed, in some respects, the horse is a shade more harmonious, more alive, more supple,
than its predecessors. The clean-cut, elegant, aristocratic contours of the head and neck, the lovely outlines of the chest, crest, croup, quarters and finely chiseled legs, and the combination of intelligence, gentleness and force of character in the head, go to make this particular horse an especially fine monumental motive."

The figure surmounting the horse is
of short, stocky, almost boyish figure,
in repose, but with a jaw, a mouth and an eye that proclaim him a real soldier.
He sits quite at ease, but quite ready
for action, neither sleepy nor nervous, neither careless nor anxious, forming an ideal sentry. His uniform and equipment are those of the trooper of 1861. He carries a carbine in his right hand. His left holds the reins loosely.
The saddle is the so-called McClellan.
Holsters, canteen, blanket are attached to the rider by straps. On the whole, the young, clear-eyed, cleanshaved, business-like cavalry soldier is worthy of his fine horse, and both are as modest-looking as they are serviceable and genuine. In looking at this group one can but reflect how far we have got away from the bombastic, theatrical, prancing, rampaging type of equestrian statue, which, with a few honorable exceptions was almost the universal thing a half-century ago.

Future of the Wireless

"Will Marconi Supplant the Cables?" is the interrogative title under which P. T. McGrath, in the October
"Cosmopolitan," gives a history of cable development from 1854 to the present jubilee year of the Atlantic cable. Among the fairy tales of science there is none more wonderful than that of the electric telegraph, and its most fascinating chapter relates to the submarine cable. Whether the latter ever will be superseded by a system which requires no wires, is a question which cannot yet be answered, and Mr. McGrath shows becoming regard for the cable's jubilee by seeming to give it at least the benefit of the doubt.

WHY YOU SHOULD VISIT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The principal reason why a visit should be made to this greatest of Expositions is on account of its educational value. A visit to the World's Fair is in itself a trip around the world, for fifty cents, the price of admission. The president of one of our greatest universities has said "To the bright student the Exposition is worth a thousand college lectures." The opportunity of a life-time is afforded in which to acquire, by a few days' sojourn at the Fair, an education which could not otherwise be received. The World's Fair Grounds cover over 1200 acres, being more than twice as large as those of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago.

Only a few weeks remain in which to take advantage of this great opportunity. Every day from now until the close of the Fair is a "special" day. The Wabash is selling daily excursion tickets to the Fair at greatly reduced rates: $12.00 St. Louis and return, on sale daily, except Fridays and Saturdays. Tickets good in Palace Reclining Chair Cars: $15.00, St. Louis and return. Tickets on sale daily, and good in either Palace Reclining Chair Cars or Pullman Sleepers. The Wabash operates through trains from Pittsburg to the World's Fair Main Entrance, all trains leaving the magnificent new passenger station, Corner of Liberty Avenue and Ferry Street, at 2.00 p. m. and 8.30 p. m. daily, City Time.

Detailed information regarding rates and train service, to St. Louis, as well as to many Homeseekers' points in the West, Northwest and Southwest, cheerfully furnished at

MCSHERRY'S STRENGTH.

As the McSherry tide rolls on to victory, as an old time Democratic majority looms up in sight, as McSherry hurries from one place to another to meet with enthusiastic ovations, the campaign demonstrates many reasons for McSherry's strength. The people of the district realize that McSherry they have a candidate who has always been a true Democrat and one imbued with the principles of Jefferson. In his campaign and victory McSherry has always been conspicuous in being true to his Democracy. He has always been an optimistic and cheerful Democrat. No one ever had to ask where he stood for he always worked for a harmonious and victorious Democracy. Now the Democratic people of the district are turning to him to do unto him as he has always done to his party, to give him a harmonious and united support toward victory.

The people of the district have heard McSherry and are now more than ever satisfied that he will play represent his district in Congress. They have heard him and know that on the floor of Congress he will be able to make himself a power in the interests of his constituents. They see in him the earnest worker who will leave nothing undone.

Scrofula

Is very often acquired, though generally inherited. Bad hygiene, foul air, impure water, are among its causes. It is called "the soil for tubercles," and where it is allowed to remain tuberculosis or consumption is pretty sure to take root. Hood's Sarsaparilla Removes every trace of scrofula. Get Hood's. For testimonials of remarkable cures send for Book on Scrofula, No. 1. C. L. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass.

in getting for his constituents and the district all that can be obtained. They see in him a man of the people working not for certain interests but as one who will work for every interest of the district. They know him as one who will ably, intelligently and conscientiously serve them and their interests alone and McSherry's strength is that of a winner.

The "Star" ten years ago manufactured out of the imagination an alarm that Judge McClean if elected might be able to retire on half pay or a pension, when there was no such law on the statute books. The "Star" now becomes warm and anxious because of some reports about Judge Swope being able to retire on half pay, and grows strenuous in denials as to the existence of such laws. We had not heard of these reports but since the "Star" is so industrious in circulating the same and the denials, before dropping the subject let us refer the "star" to Act of Assembly May 11, 1901, Pamphlet Law, 165, providing that when a Judge is incapacitated during his term of office he can be retired for the balance of his term at half pay. We do have an awful time keeping the "Star" straight as to records and the law.

A DEMOCRATIC YEAR.

This is a year when there is not the shadow of an excuse for any Democrat to with-hold from any part of the ticket, a full, active, earnest support. There is but one course open to a Democrat and that is active persistent support of the whole ticket from beginning to end, from now to the close of the polls on election day. There is no question about the fact that the Republicans fear the result, and have good reason to fear not only because of the weakness of their own ticket, representing the machine but also because of the strength of the Democratic ticket. This strength has become more and more apparent every day. The Republicans have given the strongest proof of the fear of disaster awaiting their ticket by bringing the strongest Republican spellbinder on the stump, Speaker of the House at Washington, Joseph Cannon, of Illinois, into this heavy Democratic district. They have taken the risk of bringing this speaker before Democrats in York in an effort to stem the tide plainly visible to every one as running toward Democrat success. But Uncle Joseph would be able to convert Democrats in the Adams-York congressional district to his way of thinking. This is a Democratic year. The Democratic majorities in both counties are going to stay where they belong. Democrats all over Adams and York counties are awake to the issue of having what belongs to the majority. From every point comes assurances of a hearty and harmonious support of every one on the ticket. The ticket was nominated, by a harmonious Democracy and is supported and will be elected by a harmonious Democracy.

The "Star" of Oct. 12, 1904, says "Judge McClean made more errors during his first term as Judge than Judge Swope has, the proof of which can be readily produced." As an answer to this untrue statement we quote the "Star" of June 17, 1884, David A. Buehler editor, saying: "Hon. William McClean, President Judge of this district has made an excellent judicial record and his unanimous re-nomination by the Democratic convention is a well deserved compliment. Judge McClean's judicial record has been an eminently satisfactory one and so far as we have been able to ascertain the feeling of Republicans in this county there is a disposition not to contest his re-election. The Republican county convention we take it for granted, will not place in nomination a candidate for President Judge and should recommend the re-election of Judge McClean." It is to be regretted that the present proprietor of the "Star" has not conducted his paper with that strenuous adherence to the truth that was such a notable characteristic of his father.

MEN FOR THE ASSEMBLY.

Has it not occurred to every Democrat how fully and well the County would be represented in the Legislature of Pennsylvania by the election of H. L. Bream and G. F. M. Smith. The former was for many years a farmer and is in touch with their needs and in the latter years of his life has been a successful merchant and knows the commercial life of the county. Mr. Smith knows the cigar trade, the greatest industry of the county from top to bottom, is alive to the interests not only of labor employed therein but also of the trade itself. In these two men are pre-eminently represented the interests of the county. They can be depended upon not only to care for what will most concern the people of this county but they will be true to Democracy and stand up against the most corrupt machine in politics, that which rules this State.

The "star" of last week complains because the Compiler attributed recent editorials to Judge Swope. When the proprietor of the "star," Guyon H.

Buehler, according to public report has asserted that the management of the editorial page has been turned over to the machine, or some such word which means machine why we certainly cannot be blamed for attributing editorials to the same source, and you know who Wm. B. McHenry would say the machine was.

MAKE IT DIRECTOR OF POOR KRABER.

Over in Tyrone township, near Heildersburg lives a Democratic Candidate. He is well known throughout the northern part of the county. Every one who knows him testifies to his worth. This man is Frederick A. Kraber the Democratic candidate for Director of the Poor. They say he is a good man, a careful conscientious man in all his business dealings, a kind man, an economical man. Just the kind of a man to make a first class Director of the Poor. One who will ever have kindly in mind the needs of the inmates of the County Home, one who will see to it that that home is managed carefully and economically, one who will be able to know and see to it that the farm is well taken care of and one who will take pride in a conscientious management of the institution. The thing to do is to vote for Kraber.

SENATOR-CHAIRMAN McPHERSON, State Senator by virtue of Democratic votes is hard at work for the Republican machine in the county. He is showing his appreciation of the Democratic votes he received by leaving nothing undone against the present Democratic ticket. But that is what always happens when Democrats throw away their votes and present the other side with power and position. It is always turned against the givers.

MISREPRESENTATION.

The "Star" of last week devoted two columns or more in the attempt to divert the judicial issue from the record of unfitness of Judge Swope by misrepresentations and false statements of the record of Judge McClean while on the Bench. In other words it was sought to bolster up the very poor record of Judge Swope in the Supreme and Superior Courts by comparing it with a false record of Judge McClean in the Supreme Court, the only Appellate Court while he was on the Bench.

If the truth had been stated, we would have nothing to say except that "roots of paternal mansions" was not the issue but that the record of unfitness of Judge Swope was the issue. Instead of the truth it would seem that deliberate misrepresentation was resorted to in order that Judge McClean might be made to look like a poorer Judge than Judge Swope. Of course it is not for us to express ourselves on this point but we do not propose to let false statements be made use of by which a wrong comparison may be made.

It was asserted in the "Star" that from 1884 to 1894 Judge McClean had eleven cases reversed and four affirmed. The article was certainly prepared by legal minds thoroughly acquainted with the fact that about ten years ago a rule was in force in Supreme Court that cases were endorsed "to be printed" or "not to be printed," and only the former went into the regular published reports. All reversals went in the published list but the affirmations of a half a dozen lines would not be there. Seven cases affirmed between years 1884 to 1894 have been turned to which would appear to have been deliberately kept out of the "Star's" list.

We have nothing to conceal about Judge McClean's record in the Supreme Court. By a list made up some years ago and corrected to end of his two terms, 63 cases he had decided were passed upon by Supreme Court and of these 19 were reversed and 44 affirmed. If the "Star" desires the percentage Judge McClean was right 86.5 per cent. in his cases and wrong 13.5 per cent.

In the cases of the district, of which only an investigation was made, Judge Swope in 25 cases was right in ten and wrong in 15. We eliminate in this the one case the "Star" says we credited to Judge Swope that Judge Stewart tried, though the published report of this Fulton Co. case does not give name of trial Judge. The percentage, if the "Star" desires it, is Judge Swope right 40 per cent. and wrong 60 per cent., or for comparison, Swope right 40 per cent. McClean right 64.5 per cent. Swope wrong 60 per cent. McClean wrong 35.5 per cent. Or if percentages count for anything Judge McClean would seem to have a record almost twice as good as that of Judge Swope.

When the issue of the record of unfitness of Judge Swope for the Bench has grown so desperate as to need to be bolstered up on misrepresentations and falsehoods about the record of one in no way an issue in the present campaign, one reflection is pertinent, namely that misrepresentation and falsehood can never hurt the object aimed at and must always return to harass the cause conceiving the same.

The weakness of the Republican ticket consists in the fact that it does not represent Republicanism and the Republican voters of Adams county. It represents the machine, is the machine itself and therein lies the weakness of the ticket, for the Republican voter has the opportunity to assert his freedom from the machine and vote the way that may be best for his party—that is to vote to get rid of the machine.

Take the very head of the state ticket, John P. Elkin, the politician nominated for the Supreme Bench by the state machine so that he could make no more trouble for that machine. It was not the act of Republican masses that demanded his nomination. Every one acquainted with Pennsylvania politics knows that the machine nominated Elkin to get rid of him, that the machine put him on the ticket for their purposes and not at the call of the party.

Take the head of the county ticket and everyone knows, and the Republican voter knows it better than anyone else, that the machine dictated and controlled the slating of the ticket this year as it has been doing for years. Everyone knows that the machine pulled off Walter of Biglerville, in the fight for the nomination for Prothonotary and thus was done to help the head of the ticket. Everyone knows that Charles E. Deatrlick was slated for the Prothonotaryship by the machine for two reasons. The machine was not so anxious to please Deatrlick as it was to please Straban township by reason of the feeling there against the head of the ticket and for the further reason that the machine knew that Deatrlick knew that in a former fight he had been deserted by the machine and that there would be justification on the part of his friends to get even with the machine. It was not love for Deatrlick but love for the head of the ticket which made the machine make peace with Deatrlick and pull off Walter.

The machine brought out C. L. Longsdorf of Menallen for the Legislature to kill off Cal. Beamer of the same township, and this was done to help the head of the ticket. Cal. Beamer has been the Menallen township war horse. When anything was to be done for his party in his township, he was always ready to do it, but when the machine was looking around for someone to lean on to help pull through the head of the ticket Cal. would not answer the purpose. The machine retires him for sake of Longsdorf. In fact two announced candidates were killed by this one blow of the machine, Beamer for Legislature and Gulden for Associate Judge.

It was the same machine that said no to the nominations of Beales and Mehrling, two gentlemen who had filled their offices with dignity, unless it was for the single act of trying to shield their President Judge associate from the responsibility of a decision, a sham which failed to work. These two gentlemen as a reward for their self-sacrifice are turned down by the machine to help the head of the ticket. Mehrling of Littlestown, goes to make way for Wilson of Littlestown. Beales goes in order that the machine may make an attempt to ward off a harvest of injustice at New Oxford, but the New Oxford man would not be put in this position and as second choice the machine is willing to take C. D. Smith, to help the head of the ticket.

The mass of Republican voters know that they are not responsible for the machine. They realize that year after year their ticket has been nominated by this machine and that this machine is the Adams county end of the Quay State machine. They know the time has come when the Republican voter may say to himself, shall I assert my freedom of the machine or shall I support the machine. The time has come for him to say, would not my party be better in the future if I purge my party of the machine and all machine methods, and let that party be governed hereafter by the freely expressed will of the majority. Because the Republican voter asks these questions the machine trembles in its weakness.

And who is the machine? Go ask Wm. B. McHenry, for we know a party who heard Wm. B. say he never did anything unless he consulted—but go ask McHenry, perhaps he will tell you, who.

What is the machine? Or rather who is he? It is known that when Wm. A. Himes called on Quay at one time he was referred back to Quay's representative in Adams county holding an office. Of course Quay is dead and the Editor of the Compiler will be some day, but this machine is alive as well as its representative in Adams County. Who did you say the Machine was? Oh, go ask Wm. B. McHenry where he gets his orders from.

LAFAN'S CAUSE.

The cause of Daniel F. Lafean as a congressional candidate, as we see it, is not so much what he has done, but what he in reality represents and will do when the occasion arises. One of the live issues of this campaign are the trusts. It has been demonstrated that President Roosevelt's whole life as to trusts has been a sham and that he has surrendered to them. His Attorney General has been promoted by the corporations and trusts. That fact is evidence enough to satisfy every thinking man as to the true standing of the Roosevelt administration. Roosevelt can be depended upon to protect trusts and every Republican can be expected to join the administration in giving this protection.

There is (however another reason why Daniel F. Lafean can be depended upon whenever the emergency shall arise to give his support and vote to any legislation in favor of trusts as against the people. Why? Because D. F. Lafean is the president of one trust, the candy trust, and is besides a member of the board of directors in about two dozen more corporations. He has made his money out of corporations and trusts. Does anyone question for a moment, can any one question for a moment what Lafean will do when legislation is proposed in Congress favorable to trusts and unfavorable to the people, or favorable to the people and unfavorable to trusts. His whole life is the answer. As sure as two and two is four he will be found on the side of trusts and corporations. In the only speech he has made so far he refused to make any pledges where he would stand if elected.

Lafean will not however have this chance for the people are going to send a man, who will look after their interests, in the person of William McSherry. He is one whose whole life has been devoted to the people, specially the farmer, one whose dearest wish has ever been the advancements of the interests of the farmer and citizen. There is no question where he will be when it comes to a vote for trusts or for the people. He will be for the people always and all the time. He will vote in favor of the workman as against the corporations. He will work for a decrease of the tariff so as to lighten the burden on everything the farmer buys. In the great congressional district where the majority is made up of farmers and workingmen, McSherry is the man who will always be found on their side, representing them instead of having a representative of trusts as at present.

HON. DONALD P. McPHERSON is deserving of a new title. Governor Odell, of New York, is Chairman of the Republican State Committee of that State and has become famous under the title of Governor-Chairman, because of the unusual spectacle of a high official as a political manager. His position has been condemned by both Democrats and Republicans. But why should not the head of the Republican County Committee here be known as Senator-Chairman McPherson.

VOTE FOR SLAGLE AND MARSHALL.

It seems evident that if a Democrat candidate can not be fought by fair means, he will be fought by foul means, and this applies to the candidates for associate judge, specially Geo. F. Slagle. As we have said before there are no better men for the position than Slagle and Marshall, for the reason that better men do not live in the county. They are men who have lived respectable lives, men who have been held in highest respect by those who knew them, men of character and ability. It was found impossible to truthfully say anything but what was good of them, so what was untrue and false has been resorted to as a means of Mr. Slagle. What has been said was declared by Mr. Slagle when he first heard of it to be absolutely base. This should have been enough for a man like Mr. Slagle but it was with whom the untruth was committed and we also declared that the invention of Republicans was absolutely base, that the whole life of Mr. Slagle and his community and at every election was a refutation of the falsehood. Every Democrat should see to it that such lies are killed by voting for the Democratic candidates, Slagle and Marshall.

The "Star" has been indulging in familiarities with the name of the Editor of the Compiler. We had a notion to mention the matter before but concluded they were short on campaign material. Of course we might have retorted but then Jack is a good fellow, but that he should allow others to do what he would not do himself is rather a disappointing feature of a good fellow.

PROTHONOTARYSHIP.

The training of W. A. Taughinbaugh has been such as to be the right man to elect as Prothonotary. He prepared himself as a teacher by a year at Gettysburg College and a year at the Shippensburg Normal School. He determined to thoroughly equip himself to become a teacher. His sixteen years of successful teaching is the evidence of that thoroughness. That is the kind of the man to have in the office of Prothonotary, one who will devote himself to learn the details of his duties thoroughly and give the best service in his power. Vote for Taughinbaugh.

SENATOR-CHAIRMAN McPHERSON was away on last Friday. He came from the direction of Philadelphia. Now in the City of Brotherly Love dwells the machine, with the most expert fryers of fat known to politics. After the return of the Senator-Chairman there was a visitor in town from that same city who is an office-holder, and there are rumors of a conference between him and local leaders. What do all these things mean? Have they any possible connection?

After Graduation

[John d.] When I first saw Marshall Klamman, I felt I just had been graduated from the cademy, as from college. He had led his class from start to finish, and his family was very proud of him. I remember the old-fashioned watch key he wore, the badge of an "honor" society, and it was more to me than the decoration of the Legion of Honor to a French girl or the Victoria cross to an English girl. But what was my delight during those long evenings late in June or early in July when he singled me out from among the other girls for walks after tea and seldom would dance with any one else during our gatherings after nightfall. He seemed inclined to talk with me as to his choice of a vocation; but, I confess, none of the professions seemed to me to be exalted enough for him unless he was to become a bishop, and this was not in his line. He was rather calculated, I thought, to invent a new system of philosophy, as Herbert Spencer had done.

That same spring John Sisson came home from a small institute where they taught engineering or mechanical drawing or something like that. It was understood that he had barely scraped through, and, the institution not being known to us girls, taking the two together, we did not place a very high estimate on John or his education. The truth is that we were at an age when education is everything, and people were at that time education mad. The point seemed to be to educate and let the boy use his education as best he could when he got it. John and I had been brought up together, and now that we were grown he seemed inclined to be very attentive. But why should I accept the attentions of one who had been graduated low on the scale in an unknown institution when I could have those of one who had been graduated first in the oldest university in the land?

Five years passed. Marshall Kingman had received the appointment of assistant professor in his alma mater, but, whether it was because he had not the facility of imparting his knowledge, or did not think he was getting on fast enough, he soon resigned it to embrace a good opportunity to go into business. John Sisson had managed to pick up some knowledge of civil engineering, though it was said he had failed to take his diploma. The truth is John, from the time he was in school, was infatuated with an outdoor life and was better satisfied with building a culvert or a henhouse on his father's place than in study. He was always called crack brained from certain impossible suggestions he would make with reference to ways of doing things. He went to the far west, and the next we heard of him he was back with a view to securing capital to invest in a wild scheme for draining a lake or a marsh or something of the sort. Of course no one would listen to him, and he went west again. Two or three years after this he was back again, but this time as quite an important personage, for he had done his draining, securing the funds by an issue of stocks or bonds, or something on paper, and the property had become very valuable. I ought not to say what he came for, but my story compels me to admit that he came for me.

Had he come a year or two earlier I doubt if I should have listened to him. I am a practical woman and admit that in the choice of a husband I would always recommend a girl to consider intrinsic worth. I am not romantic and see no sense in a girl choosing a man who gives no promise. I had long looked up to Marshall Kingman and the wonders he would do. He made a mistake by going into business. Those who took him in, expecting he would fill a certain department to their profit, found to their cost that he had no head for an administrative position. The friend who had given him the opportunity told him one day that what he was trying to do was beneath his requirements and recommended him to leave business and find something nearer the lines on which he had been educated. When Marshall came to me and told me this, thinking, as he did, that the man had paid him a compliment, the poor fellow's deficiencies came out plainly to me. He had shown in his tutorship that he had not the facility for imparting knowledge to others. Now it was evident that he had

But the faculty for using it in a practical need. I could not advise him; I could only sympathize with him. He wrote several books after this, but they were not practical either, and were not largely read. He is now doing book work for a publishing house.

I deserved a more substantial man, but he hoped I would take pity on him, and he would return it with a life of devotion. I considered the matter for several days and then became his affianced wife.

Fifteen years have passed and have brought a great change in my estimate of people's attainments. My husband astonishes me every day by the number of seemingly impossible things he can do and the unusual methods by which he accomplishes them. He does things which he does them. He is the most prominent man in his state, and no project of moment is undertaken without his having first been consulted. The difference between him and Marshall Kingman was that Marshall had great ability to absorb knowledge and none to apply it, while John could take a little knowledge and make it go a great way.

TIGER HARD TO POISON

Lion Usually Falls an Easy Victim, as He Eats Voraciously.

Wolves, tigers, leopards and other carnivora are difficult to poison because of the power which they have of rapidly getting rid of the drug. Lions, on the other hand, are very frequently poisoned, as they eat voraciously and quickly, more like a dog than the other large felidae. It is said that a rood many lion skins, especially those brought back by foreign counts and others from Somaliland before the regrettable misunderstanding between whites and blacks had begun in that region famous for large game, were obtained by the unsportsmanlike method of poisoning carcasses and leaving them for the lions to devour.

Cattle, which have no less than four stomachs, are hopelessly poisoned if once they have swallowed a dose, whether in a toxic plant or otherwise. It is this curious arrangement of their interiors which makes it such a difficult matter to give cattle medicine at all.

In common with human beings, animals seem to be affected by poison in certain forms when in a particular condition of health. At other times they can eat the same plant or shrub with impunity. In certain states of health a man can eat pork, lobsters, cockles, scallops and other somewhat risky foods without bad effects. At other times the same edibles would produce on him the effect of ptomaine poisoning. Two persons may eat of the same food at the same time, and while one is perfectly well afterward the other may become violently ill.

The curious cases of yew poisoning among cattle or horses seem to be somewhat analogous. They will sometimes browse on shoots of yew and take no harm whatever. At other times they are obviously made very ill or die from eating the leaves. They have even been found dead with the yew fresh and undigested in their stomachs.

Where poisonous plants are present in any great numbers in herbage it seems quite impossible to prevent cattle from eating them.

Birds seem to have no discrimination whatever in regard to poisons, probably because they have almost no sense of smell and swallow their food without masticating it. Such intelligent birds as rooks will pick up and eat poisonous grain, and crows and ravens readily eat poisoned eggs or meat.

Chickens will eat the poisonous seeds of the laburnum and die from the effects. Whether birds such as tits and green finches ever do so does not seem to be known, but wild birds are frequently found dying in gardens, though apparently they have been in good health a few hours before, and their death may probably be due to the consumption of poisonous seeds.—Chicago Chronicle.

BLADES OF GRASS.

The Reason They Grow So Abundantly Throughout the World.

Grasses are widely diffused throughout the world in order to provide abundantly for the sustenance of a very large portion of the animal kingdom.

"Grasses," says Paier, "are nature's care. Cattle feed upon their leaves, birds upon their smaller seeds, men upon the larger, for our bread corn is a grass. They thrive under treatment by which other plants are destroyed. The more their leaves are consumed the more their roots increase, and the more they are trampled upon the thicker they grow. Many that seem dead and dry renew their verdure in the spring. On lofty mountains, where summer heats are not sufficient to ripen the seeds, grasses abound which are vivacious and consequently able to propagate themselves without seed."

It is interesting to note in this connection that animals at liberty in their pasture to graze and choose attack the leaves and leave unharmed the stalks which support the reproductive flowers.

THE CAMPAIGN ISSUES

An Executive Obedient to the Constitution or Not.

AN ABLER AND BETTER REPRESENTATIVE IN CONGRESS FROM THE MAJORITY PARTY IN DISTRICT

An Experienced Lawyer as Against a Judicial Record of Unfitness For the Last Ten Years—A Ticket Worthy the Support of Every Citizen.

The paramount issue of the presidential campaign is whether the people want a President who has had little respect for the constitutional limitations of his office as against one who will in every act be governed by the constitution.

President Roosevelt has given the country a spectacular display of militarism ever since he has been in the public eye. On the eve of his nomination the absurd telegram sent the Sultan of Morocco, "Raisula dead or alive" was in keeping with the continued expression of his life and administration. President Roosevelt, in our humble judgment is no more a type of constitutional government than Emperor William II of Germany would be. His life and words declare it.

In his book "Oliver Cromwell" on page 22 President Roosevelt wrote: "In great crisis it may be necessary to overturn constitutions."

In such a crisis necessarily in his opinion the word of a dictator should control as against the voice of the people. President Roosevelt usurped authority in what he did in the settlement of the coal strike. He acted beyond his power and without precedent in the Panama revolution. The question staring every voter in the face is: Can any man be fit to be President who thinks a constitution can be overturned for any purpose as against a Judge whose whole life has been given toward the maintenance of that constitution in all its integrity.

The danger from the administration of a President holding the views of President Roosevelt can be appreciated by a mere quotation of his own words. In a speech in New York in 1896 he said:

"Mr. Bryan and his adherents have appealed to the basest set in the land, the farmers."

In "Ranch Life and Hunting Trail" on pages 9 and 10 Mr. Roosevelt, speaking of cowboys, often "brutally dissipated" says

"They are however much better fellows and pleasanter companions than small farmers or agricultural laborers:

nor are the mechanics and workmen of a great city to be mentioned in the same breath."

Farmers, mechanics and workmen are the backbone of the nation.

The Presidents love of war is well illustrated in his "Life of Benton," when he wrote:

"A class of professional noncombatants is as hurtful to the healthy growth of a nation as a class of fire eaters, for a weakness or folly is nationally as bad a vice or worse, and in the long run, a Quaker may be quite as undesirable as a citizen as a duelist."

Surely the above is enough for all Democrats, and Liberty looking citizens, of Adams County, those who believe in the preservation of the constitution in every crisis to cast their votes for Parker and Davis.

For Congress the Democratic majority in the district presents a candidate who will more fully and abler and better represent this great district than at present. William McSherry has announced his platform in the following words:

"I promise that if I am elected—as I mostly firmly believe that I will—I will be a most faithful servant of the public and that I will devote my time to the best interests of the people in my district. Every letter will be answered, every application will meet with my fullest consideration, and I will always be a most fearless exponent of the rights and wishes of my people in the halls of Congress. I favor Jeffersonian principles of government, friendly and peaceful relations with all nations and entangling relations with none; I believe in the freedom of the press, religious and personal freedom, the issuance of writs of habeas corpus and the rights of all to trial before an unbiased and impartial jury. I condemn the present practice of setting aside the privileges of an impartial trial and substituting in its place injunction. If a high tariff was ever justifiable that time has passed, for it has and is wiping out the small industries of the country. The Democratic party holds only a tariff sufficient for an economical administration of the country's affairs is just and equitable. The cardinal principle of Democracy is majority rule. The farmer and laborer in this country is the majority and as such should control its legislation."

The judicial issue is an able, capable and experienced lawyer in the person of Charles S. Duncan on one side and on the other a ten year record of unfitness, demonstrated by the proof submitted in recent issues of the COMPILER. The whole ticket from top to bottom presents the issue to all Democrats and citizens that it is a ticket deserving the hearty, harmonious, united support of the Democratic party. The candidates are men who will perform the duties of their office efficiently and who will have one object above all others in sight, the service of the people as against service to a machine.

RALLY FOR DEMOCRATIC SUCCESS

Voice From Beneath: "Who threw that last brick?"

—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

CATS AND DOGS.

The Enmity That Exists Between Them and the Reason of It.

Why does the dog hate the cat? Scientists have been investigating the enmity between these animals, and they believe that the instinctive hatred which certain beasts feel for each other is due to inheritance from ancient times when the animals met in a wild state and preyed on each other.

The enmity between cats and dogs seems to be due more to hatred on the part of the dog than of the cat. The latter animal apparently hates dogs because dogs chase her, while the dog hates the cat because she is a cat.

A cat will feed at a place where a dog has been without betraying any signs of anger, but a dog generally becomes excited and wild if he scents the trail of a cat anywhere near his food or sleeping place.

Now this enmity is not to be explained by anything that happens between dogs and cats in domesticity or anything that ever happened between them as long ago as human history goes. In all these thousands of years dogs and cats have been kept as pets, and of all animals they are the two which should be the most friendly.

But the reverse is the case. One naturalist, Dr. Zell, seeks it in the fact that the common cat not only looks like, but smells like, the great cats of prey. And of those cats of prey there is one, much like a domestic cat in many ways, which hunts dogs by preference. This big cat is the leopard.

The domestic cat and her larger relative, the wildcat, have never learned the race of dogs, but their great speckled cousin is and always has been the most ferocious of dog murderers, and the cat must pay for it.

Authorities agree that there is no animal that the leopard would rather eat than the dog. As a result there are many villages in the districts in which leopards are plentiful where nobody can keep a dog. The great cats will not hesitate to break into the houses to seize their favorite dish.

But, says the doubter, the modern dog certainly could not have known leopards in many thousands of years. He has been a domestic pet in regions where there have been no leopards since man first appeared.

That is true, says Dr. Zell. But he points to the fact that dogs have a habit of turning around several times before they lie down. This, he says, is due to the fact that when they were in a wild state they had to do this to press down leaves and twigs in order to prepare a bed for themselves, and as they have not overcome this habit in all their years of domesticity it is quite natural that they should still instinctively ferce hatred of any creature that smells like a leopard.

Dogs and cats are not the only animals that still show inherited fear or hatred of other beasts which they have never seen themselves. Thus the rhinoceros is frantically in fear of anything white, and naturalists say that this is because once upon a time some big white animal hunted him. But that must have been long ago, for there are no big white animals now where the rhinoceros dwells.

Chickens that have never seen a fox will cackle and run in fear if they come across the place where the animal has passed or where his carcass has been dragged. If a fox has been anywhere near a cat's drinking dish the cat will not approach it.—New York Press

A CURIOUS ANIMAL.

The Jelly-like Amoeba Has Neither Limbs, Mouth Nor Stomach.

The amoeba, probably the simplest form of animal life, has neither limbs, mouth, nor stomach. Its whole anatomy consists of a simple cell of the jelly-like material called protoplasm. It moves with a flowing motion, just as a drop of glycerin might slide on a slightly inclined plate.

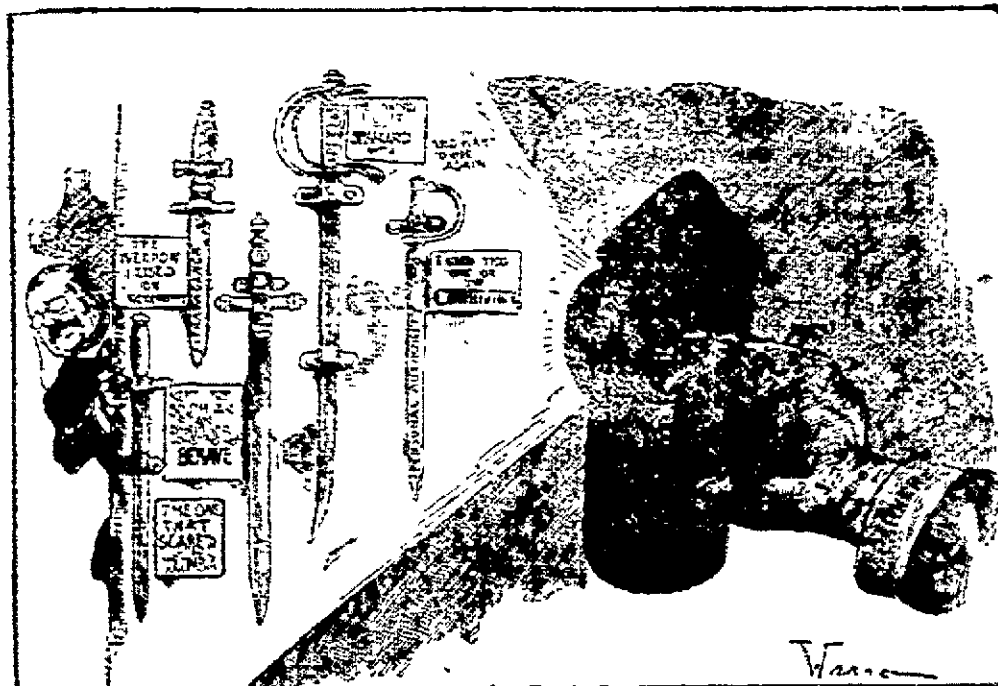

It feeds by flowing over and engulfing and ingesting animal or vegetable organism that may be in its path. When it has digested its food it passes on and leaves the residue behind.

The amoeba can be found on the surface of the mud at the bottom of almost any stagnant pool and is hardly visible without a microscope. It reproduces its kind by simply dividing into two when it has reached a certain size. Occasionally two amoeba merge into one, when breaks up into many much smaller ones. In times of drought the amoeba encloses itself in a hard cyst and waits until its home is wet again.

A Purpose.

A purpose is always a companion. An earnest purpose is the closest of companions. To fulfill duties is more than to enjoy pleasures. It carries its own reward. There is no bitter loneliness for those affectionately devoted to blessing their fellow creatures. The keeper of the lighthouse when night settles around him and the tempest holds revelry and he looks out on the ghastly glare of the breakers and hears the shrieking of the storm fiend, finds good company in the thought that the friendly light he trims will warn endangered crews of their peril and perhaps save them from death. Gifted souls find solace and companionship in their work.

WHITE HALL BY TELEPHONE

A LINE WILL BE BUILT AT EARLY DATE.

Citizens of That Vicinity Subscribed $60 to Get The Telephone Service.

White Hall, Oct. 21.—Margaret, wife of John A. Lohr, died on Monday, aged 90 years and 11 days, interred in Littleton Cemetery. Services conducted by Rev. Lindaman and Fox. Mother Lohr was married to the house for several years, but bore her affliction with Christian fortitude. She is survived by her husband who is 89 years old, and one daughter, Mrs. Anna Hales.

This Village has been isolated so far as telephone and telegraph lines are concerned. There is now almost a certainty that we will have telephone facilities in the near future, as a line has been surveyed, from where the Gettysburg and Hanover road branch at Mr. Amos Basehart's to this place. It will be a branch of the bell line from Hanover to Littlestown. The Company demanded $60 per year as a guarantee to build the line and give us phone service, which sum has been subscribed by our citizens. Many of our citizens will only appreciate its services after the service is established. A band of those wanderers known as Gypsies are encamped a short distance from this place in M. A. Rife's woods.

Services conducted by Rev. Bastian at St. Luke's Church will continue nightly during this week. Corn husking is in full blast. It is a heavy crop in this section.

William K. Weikert bought a new corn husker and is busily engaged husking corn and shredding fodder. The machine will husk about 700 bush. of corn and shred the fodder in one day. He uses the engine which furnishes the power to thresh grain and hull clover seed.

Channell Heaps, who in partnership with Jacob Miller conducted the store here about 12 years ago and who removed to Dublin, near Delta, in Howard county, Maryland, about 11 years ago paid this village an appreciated visit last week, the first since 1893.

Weather is stormy and cold. Sure sign of the near approach of winter. A. H. P.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Diehl. She had outlived her husband about ten years and left to survive her two sons, Upton of Topeka, Kansas, Ephraim at home and two daughters Elizabeth and Eliza Anna at home. The deceased was an aunt of Mrs E. L. Shafer of East Berlin and was highly respected by her neighbors and friends.

Ketterer, of New York City, Mrs. Washington Metzger and Mannie Kobler of this place. Lewis Jordy, of Abbottstown, is a surviving brother, and Dr. George H. Jordy of Hanover a nephew.

A. B. Trimmer of this place is called upon frequently as funeral director for out of town funerals on account of his having a furniture wagon to supply families with chairs for funerals, which is found a very convenient arrangement.

We had a nice rain on last Friday night and grain and grass look well. A. C. Miller is building a barn on
